Graduation from eighth grade is a huge milestone for all eighth-graders, and the 8th grade graduation dance is one way of celebrating this accomplishment. The graduation dance, where formal 8th grade graduation dresses with sleeves or stylish semi-formal graduation dresses are worn, is held to commemorate eighth graders moving on to high school and becoming high school freshmen. This night allows eighth-graders to enjoy their last chance at being with everyone in eighth grade and dance the night away in gorgeous eighth-grade graduation dresses and dashing suits. What do you wear to the middle school graduation dance? Go for dresses that don't restrict movement. Fine examples include the knee-length 8th grade prom dresses at Peaches Boutique. The dresses come in many different styles, such as strapless, backless, scalloped, off-the-shoulder, halter, high neck, or a sweetheart neckline with A-line or high low skirts. Some would go for ankle length long prom dresses for the 8th grade graduation dance, with a few going for floor length, but these are made of light yet elegant fabric. What color 8th grade graduation dress should I buy? Whether it be a dazzling 8th grade formal dress or one of those semi formal graduation dresses, it should be your own choice. White graduation dresses for 8th grade are among the top color dress choices. Black graduation dresses for 8th grade are also preferred, but you can go for something more striking, such as bright red, green, or blue. The great thing about graduation dresses, such as our long prom dresses for 8th graders, at Peaches Boutique, is that you can also wear them on other special occasions. Can I wear a short 8th grade formal dress to my graduation dance? Yes, you can! Short graduation dresses for 8th grade are not just reserved for the dance; you can wear them to other occasions such as a wedding, just like our short and long prom dresses for 8th graders here at Peaches Boutique. We have these 8th-grade prom dresses in many different gorgeous styles, so you can get the style that best fits perfectly, simply by dropping by our store. Page 2 © Peaches Boutique. We price match and offer returns and exchanges. 1 Choose a color that looks nice on you. When you're looking for a dress for formal, you want to choose a color that you love and that makes your skin and eyes look radiant.[1] If you have warm undertones in your skin, you'll look great in yellow, orange, brown, ivory, and warm-toned reds. Cool undertones in your skin mean that greens, pinks, purples, blues, magenta, and blue reds will flatter you. To figure out if you have warm or cool undertones, check the veins on your wrist. If they appear very blue, you probably have a cool undertone. If they appear slightly green, you have a warm undertone. Above all, wear what makes you feel confident. If you are petite, you would look great wearing a shorter dress or a dress with an asymmetrical hemline to make you look taller. Taller girls look great in floor length dresses or dresses that come past the knees. If you're taller, you can also wear a short dress if you want to show off your legs. Advertisement 3 Find a dress cut that flatters your figure.[2] Often, the hardest part of choosing a dress is deciding what cut you like. Different types of dresses flatter different body types. If you are busty with a large bust, narrow hips, and undefined waist, you want to add dimension to your hips, and bring attention to your face. Choose a dress with tulle or pleats at the hips and a defined waist. If you're slender, you will look best in a dress that is very fitted with a belt or cinching at the waist. If you have an apple-shaped figure (that is, if you carry weight in stomach with slim legs), you'll look great in a dress with an empire waist or embellished top section and a full skirt. If you have an hourglass figure with a small waist and proportionate bust and hips proportion, any dress that accentuates your naturally small waist will make you look great. A pear-shaped figure with a defined waist and hips larger than bust looks great in a strapless dress or open-necked top and a full skirt or an A-line skirt. If you are petite or shorter than 5'3", a slim fitting, shorter dress will look great on you. 4 Find an affordable dress. For an eighth-grade formal, you can wear any type of nice dress. It doesn't have to be a dress made specifically for a prom or formal. Many department stores have wide selections at reasonable prices. Buy a secondhand dress. Buying your dress secondhand is a great way to get something beautiful at a good price. This is an especially good option if your school's formal is styled after a prom, and you want a true gown to wear. Check out thrift stores in your area.[3] You never know what you might find. Ask around to see if anyone has old prom dresses they'd like to sell. You can ask family friends or the older siblings of your friends. Chances are good they'll sell you the dress for much cheaper than if you were to buy it. If it's slightly big, you can have it altered. 5 Dare to be different.[4] Being a girl doesn't mean that you have to wear a dress to your eighth grade formal. Wear whatever makes you feel your best. Consider a fitted suit or a cool pair of pants and a formal shirt. Another great alternative to a dress is a skirt and top. 6 Wear comfortable shoes. When you're dressing for formal, you want to wear shoes that complete your outfit and make you look great. If you do decide to wear heels, make sure that you are comfortable walking in them. Remember that at a formal you will be on your feet a lot. Consider alternatives to traditional high heels.[5] Wear nice sandals or pretty flats. If you want to stand out, you can even wear sneakers like Converse or Vans with your dress or formal attire. 7 Check your school's dress code. Before you buy your outfit for formal, you want to make sure that it complies with any dress codes your school has. Ask a teacher or administrator to find out if there are any regulations on dress length or strap type. Advertisement
